By DON MCKEE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace, challenged by the U.S. government on his pledge to block integration at the University of Alabama, was planning his next move today in his sovereignty dispute with federal authorities.

He had no comment on whether he would comply with a federal judge's summons to court.

The segregationist governor, himself a former state judge, was ordered Friday by U.S. District Judge Seymour H. Lynne to appear in Birmingham for a June 3 injunction hearing.

Lynne set the hearing on a Justice Department petition for injunctive restraint of Wallace, who has vowed he will keep Negroes out of the University of Alabama.

Scheduled to seek enrollment for the summer session starting June 10, are Vivian J. Malone, 20, of Mobile, and David M. McGlathery, 27, of Huntsville. Miss Malone will attempt to enter the main campus, McGlathery the Huntsville extension center.

A federal judge, ruling this week that racial unrest in the state could not be considered, refused to delay enrollment of the Negroes.

The federal government moved to curb Wallace four days after he declared, "I embody the sovereignty of this state" and pledged to bar personally the entrance of any Negro to the state university.

In the Justice Department proceedings against the governor, the federal government asserted its sovereignty and said a governor "has no authority by interposition or otherwise to obstruct or prevent the execution of the lawful orders of a court of the United States."

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who signed the complaint, said in Washington the action is aimed at testing Wallace's announced position of "legal resistance and legal defiance."

$1.6 Billion for Military Construction

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee authorized today $1,633,472,000 for military construction in 1964, a cut of 13 per cent from Defense Department requests.

The committee lopped off $242,963,000 from the $1,876,435,000 asked by the department. The money must be appropriated in a separate bill.

Biggest item in the bill is $692,862,000 for military housing—including debt retirement, operation and maintenance, and construction of 10,000 new houses in this country and abroad.

The second largest authorization is $493,950,000 for the Air Force, a 15 per cent cut from the $581,685,000 requested.

The Navy was put down for $205,277,000, a cut of 20.8 per cent from requests, and the Army $200,672,000, a 16.3 per cent cut.

Other items in the bill are $34,200,000 for armed forces reserves unchanged from Defense Department requests, and $6,511,000 for defense agencies, a 25.3 per cent cut from the $27,020,000 requested.

Group Helps Victims of Narcotics

By WILLIAM ALCOTT

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — A life preserver dangling over the door reads, "Shang tough."

This slang expression means "don't give up" and is the symbol of Synanon—a group dedicated to the rehabilitation of narcotic addicts.

Dr. Donald Cressey, sociologist at the University of California at Los Angeles, describes the psychology: "A group in which criminal A joins with some non-criminals to change criminal B is probably most effective in changing criminal A."

The architect of this unique project in human reclamation is an earthy Irishman named Charles Dederich.

"We destroy myths here," he said.

More than 200 addicts reportedly have been taken off drugs by the foundation.

Synanon got its name when an addict mispronounced the word "seminar" which is part of Dederich's rehabilitation program.

Dederich, 50, opened the first foundation in an old store-front building in Ocean Park, Calif., in 1958. Thirty addicts lived in the makeshift quarters.

A year later Synanon moved its headquarters to an abandoned three-story armory a mile up the beach in Santa Monica. The main house and smaller dwellings strung along the beach now house 135 addicts.

Synanon has expanded its operations to include an honor camp for 17 convicts in Reno, Nev., 40 miles from the Nevada State Prison in Carson City.

A unit in Westport, Conn. has 22 members and homes are planned for San Diego, New York and Washington, D.C.

The treatment at Synanon is patterned largely along the lines of the group therapy of Alcoholics Anonymous. An addict must first be willing to quit narcotics. He comes to Synanon voluntarily and can leave when he wishes.

The approach is psychological, addict helping addict, sharing common experiences in a community atmosphere akin to a home.

The treatment embraces three stages. The emotionally shaken, physically weak addict gradually adjusts to his new surroundings. Then he works at a regular job outside the house, contributing part of his wages to the group while continuing to live at the community house.

Finally Synanon sends the member out into society after he has saved a few hundred dollars. He owns a car and finds a place to live away from the tantalizing haunts of addicts.

"The Growth of Freedom" was the title of the presentation which was written and produced by the students. Living pictures, dialogues, and playlets traced the growth of freedom in the Western world from its beginning in Ancient Greece and Rome up to the present time.

The plays were written by: David Jones, Junanne Reynolds, Billy Cash, Johnny Young, Butch Reeves, Susan McCain, Sue Russell, Carla Turner. The narration for the entire program was written and presented by Pat Westbrook. Art work on murals, scenery, flags and banners was done by Amelia Harris, Donna Connolly, Junanne Reynolds, Pat Westbrook, Susan McCain, Sue Russell, David Jones, Billy Cash, Johnny Young, Melba Huckabee, Butch Reeves, and Sherry Crank. Susan McCain served as student director.

The program follows: Prologue by Emcee, Sue Russell; Playlet "The Death of Socrates"; "Election of a Tribune"; "Persecution of the Christian"; "Monks and Monasteries"; "Knighting Ceremony"; "Kurt, the Weaver"; "Columbus"; "Joan of Arc"; "Signing of the Magna Charta"; "The Industrial Revolution"; "Paris Fashion Show"; "Danish Folk Dance"; "America's Birthday—a play in Spanish"; "The Berlin Wall"; "The United Nations."

Between scenes talent numbers were presented as follows: Piano solos by: Sherry Crank, Mary Marcum, Gail Burke, Sharon Rogers, Robert Gladney, Melba Huckabee, Kenny Koen, Janey Seamans, Sue Russell, Ginny Gardner and Pat Westbrook.

Pantomimes: "409" by Randall Quillen, Freddy McManus, Billy Cash, and Kenny Koen; "The Rebel" by Junanne Reynolds, Pat Westbrook, Donna Connolly, and Mary Marcum; and "Lolipops" by Sharon Rogers, Sherry Crank, Gail Burke, and Janey Seamans. Carolyn Sue Davis sang a solo "Sweet Betsy."

As the closing number the entire group sang: "A Prayer for Peace," with Pat Westbrook directing, and Sue Russell at the piano. Members of the caste not mentioned above were: Neil Edwards, Donnie Allen, Bob Burke, and Steve Murphy.

Other activities which the class have planned to supplement the textbook are a travel talk which was presented Monday, May 20, by Mr. Earl O'Neal. Mr. O'Neal showed movies of his recent trip to Hawaii and also movies of a trip to Sweden and Denmark. Thursday, May 23, the class will visit the home of Mrs. Lile Moore to enjoy furnishings and objects of art brought from Japan by Mrs. Moore.

Survivors include his wife, two sons, Doyle of Hope and Coy of Texarkana; one daughter, Mrs. Neil Butler of Texarkana. Services will be held Sunday at Shover Springs.

Tax Cut Bill So Far Is Tax Raising Bill

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1963 tax cut bill is a tax raising bill so far.

The House Ways and Means Committee, in sticking together its version of President Kennedy's tax revision and reduction legislation has been concentrating mostly on changes that tend to increase revenues.

The last decision it is scheduled to make is on the new rates—or in other words, the principal tax cuts.

Kennedy has recommended a net reduction of about $10.3 billion, spread over three years. The committee may cross this bridge in about two weeks.

Meanwhile it has reached agreement, subject to later review, on six items. The net effect of the agreements is an addition of $136 million to the annual tax take.

Only one of the provisions so far adopted would reduce taxes. The committee has voted a $40 million break to people whose incomes fluctuate widely—such as actors, authors and professional athletes. They would be allowed an averaging system that would help them stay in lower tax brackets in their high-income years.

Of the other changes agreed on, two relating to charitable deductions have only minor revenue effect and three are definite tax raisers.

The committee voted for a substantial cutback in the tax advantage now given sick pay, for an estimated $10 million increase in revenues. It approved tighter restrictions on casualty losses deductible from income, a $60 million pickup. Taxing employees on the value of premiums paid by their employers on large—$30,000 and above—group life insurance policies was also approved, but was figured to be worth only $6 million in additional revenues.

Fulbright Raps Decision by DeGaulle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said today French President Charles de Gaulle's opposition to Britain's admission to the common market has "mutilated our machinery for achieving a special working relationship with Europe."

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, added that he is particularly disturbed by the "drift toward protectionism which has been characteristic of Common Market agricultural policy."

Fulbright addressed a world trade luncheon of the Washington Board of Trade.

"The economic principle of comparative advantage has been grossly violated by the imposition of burdensome, or even prohibitory levies and other restrictions on U.S. wheat, corn, rice, poultry, and other commodities," he said.

"Poultry has already been virtually excluded from the European market and much of our other agricultural trade with Europe, which totals approximately $1.2 billion per year, is in danger."

Music Is Universal and Was Probably Started by Strange Creature Known as Old Goat

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Where did music come from? What were the first musical instruments? Was this universal language always written the same way as it is today?

Of course, it is only a fairy story, but a pretty one, that the ancient Greeks told their children about a queer little fellow named Pan and how he had the first musical instrument.

As many of you know, when the Greeks called him an "old goat," they were half right, literally. He had the head and body of a goat, the torso of a man and two little horns on his forehead. From his waist down, he was for all the world like a goat.

One day, as the story goes, Pan happened to pass by the side of a beautiful river, along the banks of which long reeds were growing. Pan tore off some of these in different lengths, lunched them together in his fist, and thus was created the famous "Pipes of Pan."

The reeds were hollow, and when he blew over their ends pretty sounds came forth. The Greeks thought this was one of the ways in which music began, but they were mistaken for music of some kind has been a part of the life of most all races of men from the very earliest times. Egyptian hieroglyphics show people playing instruments over 7,000 years before the birth of Christ.

The earliest records of musical instruments, however, are found in the Holy Bible. In Genesis we read of "the harp and the pipe," "the tambourine and the harp." And at the deliverance of the Israelites at the Red Sea, Miriam and some of the other women played tambourines while others burst into beautiful song of triumphant praise.

David was well known for his skill with the harp on which he composed many of the beautiful Psalms. But there were other stringed instruments and percussion and wind instruments, as well, in the scriptures.

The timbrel or tambourine comes in the percussion category, and it was used a lot in domestic festivities. Since it was played mostly by women, it was used to accompany songs and to beat time for dances, but it was not found in the temple orchestra where women were not allowed.

Cymbals were used by David's chief musician, Asaph, who was a professional cymbalist.

Wind instruments were chiefly flutes or pipes and horns. The single pipe was held vertically and blown by a mouthpiece at the end. Another kind was held and blown like a flute. The trumpet and horn were wind instruments, too, and were made of the horns of oxen or rams or in imitation of them. Later, they were made of silver and other metals.

Now we come to the stringed instruments. They had frames of wood with strings of gut and were played with the fingers or with a plectrum of wood, ivory, or metal. The harp was in general use, as was a similar instrument called the psaltery. The psaltery was tuned to the soprano register, the harp and an octave lower; thus, they harmonized excellently in orchestra.

Through the centuries, the art of music became finer and finer. At first it was written with letters of the alphabet. A great many hundred years passed after the first birthday of Jesus Christ before our way of writing notes was found out. Today, thanks to Guido d'Arezzo, who died about 1050 and is said to have made the first real staff, and to Franco of Cologne, who lived about 1200 and is said to have made the first good way

Khrushchev Promises to Visit Cuba

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev today accepted an invitation to visit Cuba and renewed his threats to unleash Soviet nuclear power to defend the Caribbean island against invasion.

Both pledges came in a joint communique at the end of the public phase of the nearly month-long red carpet reception for Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Western diplomats said the visit pulled the Soviet premier out of a political hole.

Castro and Khrushchev now plan a rest in the south.

The communique, issued by the Soviet news agency Tass, said Khrushchev accepted "with gratitude" Castro's invitation to visit "the first Socialist state in America." No date was mentioned.

Turning to the defense of Cuba, the communique added:

"In the course of talks between comrades N. S. Khrushchev and Fidel Castro it was confirmed by the Soviet side that if an attack was made on Cuba in violation of the commitments undertaken by the United States President not to invade Cuba, the Soviet Union will fulfill its international duty to the fraternal Cuban people and will render it the necessary aid for the defense of the freedom and independence of the Cuban republic with all the means at its disposal."

"The organizers of aggression should remember that an invasion of Cuba will place mankind before a devastating nuclear missile war."

(A State Department spokesman in Washington challenged the communique's reference to a commitment by President Kennedy not to invade Cuba. He said the no-invasion pledge was offered "for something the Russians never delivered—that is, on-site inspection in Cuba" to verify the removal of Soviet "offensive weapons.")

The communique's hard language and heavy stress on Soviet pledges to aid Cuba against any attack appeared designed to soothe the still-ruffled feelings of Castro at the withdrawal of Soviet missiles last fall.

1000th Year for Orthodox Monasteries

By PHILIP DOPULOS

MT. ATHOS, Greece (AP)—This is a rare year in the 10-century history of the rugged Mt. Athos Peninsula and its monks who want nothing of worldly life. The Orthodox monasteries are marking their 1,000th birthday and hoping that their community—despite a dwindling population—will go on forever.

About 250 guests, all men, will gather here next month for religious services and other observances of the anniversary.

The visitors will find that 10 centuries have changed little on the Macedonian Peninsula, a six-mile-wide strip of land jutting 30 miles into the Aegean Sea.

It remains largely a community of monks living in scattered monasteries or as hermits in isolated caves and huts.

Footpaths wind through forests, linking the monasteries and the peninsula's few villages. There isn't an automobile around.

Visitors from the outside must get passes from Greek officials and have them approved on Mt. Athos by the monks' own government, consisting of an elected representative from each monastery.

Women are never permitted. Even female domestic animals—cows, hens, mares—are barred. The only exception was Queen Helen of Serbia in the 13th century. The monks admitted her because she had been one of their greatest benefactors.

Legend says she entered a Mt. Athos church to pray and a voice from an icon said: "Begone; this is no place for a woman."

The peninsula has been off limits to females since 819—about a half century after monks started retiring to Mt. Athos.

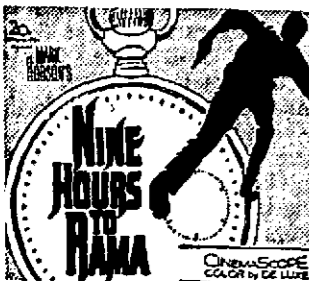

The real birth of Athosite monasticism was in 963, when Emperor Nicephorus Phocas of Byzantium issued a golden bull, or charter, to St. Athanasius the Athosite for the establishment of the monastery of Megisti Lavra. It was the first of the 20 major monasteries.

NATO Agrees to Beef Up Nuclear Arms

By ARTHUR GAYSHON

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP)—A draft communique prepared for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council of Ministers today set forth a four-point program to beef up the nuclear power of NATO.

At the same time, the document said the group remained concerned about the continued presence of Soviet forces in Cuba and recent threats to peace in Laos.

It served notice, too, that the 15 Atlantic Pact members stand firm on their 1958 pledge to guard the freedom and security of West Berlin against the persisting menace of a Red take-over.

As disclosed by diplomats, the program in the draft communique lays down:

1. The assignment of Britain's V-bomber force and three American Polaris submarines, with their H-weapons, to Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, supreme Allied commander, Europe.

2. Establishment by Lemnitzer at his headquarters near Paris of a deputy to take charge of nuclear affairs. The deputy has not yet been chosen although a Dutch general is being considered for the post.

3. Arrangements for NATO member states to participate in nuclear activities in Allied commands and in coordination of operational planning at Omaha, Neb., headquarters of the U.S. Strategic Air Command.

4. Interchange of fuller nuclear information from member countries, both in a military and policy sense.

The joint communique, which is expected to win formal approval of the NATO foreign ministers, said the four measures had been designed to:

"Increase the effectiveness of the nuclear capability at the disposal of the Alliance and to improve coordination and control of its nuclear deterrent forces."

The statement had been carefully negotiated between France and her partners during the past several weeks.

The draft communique stressed that NATO recognized the need "to achieve a satisfactory balance between nuclear and conventional arms."

In this context, the permanent council of the Alliance in Paris has been instructed to make further studies, in cooperation with Lemnitzer's staff, of "the interrelated questions of strategy, force requirements and the resources available to meet them."

Agreement on the nuclear force was the chief achievement of the three-day meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's foreign and defense ministers.

The new interallied force bears no name, in deference to French President Charles de Gaulle, on any internationalism he doesn't dominate.

But formation of the force under U.S. Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, the supreme allied commander in Europe, represents a major development in the political and military relations of the Western alliance for these reasons:

1. It opens the way to a sharing of some U.S. nuclear secrets with the European allies, in the context of both weaponry and operations.

2. It gives West Germany an active nuclear strike role for the first time. That may mean new tensions with the Soviet Union.

3. It represents a tentative first step toward bringing present and future nuclear forces of the alliance under collective management.

The nuclear force at the outset will be made up of the three U.S. Polaris submarines in the Mediterranean. Britain's 180-plane V-bomber force, and fighter-bomber units of Canada, West Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium, Greece, Turkey and Italy. Two French fighter squadrons stationed in West Germany also may be included.

Agreement on the nuclear force was reached Wednesday, the conference's first day. Thursday the allied statesmen assessed the aims, intentions and policies of the Soviet Union and her Communist partners. They also ranged swiftly around the world's major trouble spots, from the Caribbean to the Indo-Chinese Peninsula.

The consensus which emerged suggested that the Communist world may be on the brink of big changes. In their view the Soviet Union and Red China are nearing a confrontation—early July was mentioned—which will show if those two giants are going to settle.

Market Has Bounced Back From 'Crash'

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market has bounced back—and then some—from the crash of 1962.

In the year since the "Black Monday" of May 28 a sorely sick market has recovered robust health.

Actually, say experts on Wall Street, today's market is much more solid than the one that soared to an all-time peak in late 1961. The market has been nudging that level recently.

After hitting its historic 1961 high in a frenzy of speculative stock buying, the market slipped for nearly six months and then collapsed with a thud heard around the world.

The panicky trading on "Black Monday" and on May 29 and 31 (May 30 was a holiday) was later described by the New York Stock Exchange as "the most dramatic market events in more than three decades."

The market continued drifting downward, reaching a low of 535.76 on the Dow Jones industrial average June 26. It had been at 611.89 on May 25, 1962, and 734.91 on Dec. 13, 1961. This May 17 it stood at 724.81.

The Associated Press 60-stock average has reached an historic high. It was 273.6 on May 17 after having been 240.9 a year earlier.

For the next few months the market wallowed with the badly burned smaller investors clinging to the sidelines.

The market faced many stresses and strains. International crises upset it. There was apprehension about the Securities and Exchange Commission's investigation of the securities industry. The possibility of a recession caused anxiety.

But in October the market got a lift when the Soviets agreed to remove missiles and bombers from Cuba in compliance with U.S. demands.

From that point the market mounted an advance that was one of the sharpest and longest in history.

High quality blue chip stocks led the market parade. Oils, motors, utilities and rails were in the vanguard.

Most of the buying in the last quarter of 1962 and the first quarter of 1963 was done by professional traders, institutions and the funds. The little fellows continued to be wary of the market, selling more stock than they were buying.

Norwich U. Cadets Riot for Hour

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—Police and more than 300 rioting Norwich University cadets traded blows for an hour Thursday night as violence erupted during a party raid at Vermont College, a 500-student girls school.

Police fired warning shots and tear-gas grenades at the height of the riot.

No serious injuries were reported and there were no arrests. Several officers, including Police Chief George Connor, 60, were knocked to the ground by the cadets as the girls and some 2,000 residents of this capital city looked on.

"They were like mad dogs," Connor said. "It was the worst thing I've ever encountered. It was just like a race riot, and someone might have been killed."

Connor said most of the cadets apparently had been drinking beer.

The cadets, stung by disciplinary action taken after a riot Tuesday night on their own campus in Northfield, 15 miles away, surged up East State Street about 9:30 p.m. while police stood helplessly by.

A Montpelier officer said several policemen were beaten and their clothes were ripped. He added the police returned the blows.

Many other officers were bruised by flying rocks. With the girls leaning out the windows, and according to witnesses, shouting encouragement, the youths broke into the dormitories, smashed windows, doors and furniture. Damage was estimated by police at $10,000.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk urged his partners to be on guard against a sudden deterioration in the Soviet temper.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, more hopeful, stressed that the allies must be ready to recognize and act upon any serious bid for a reconciliation.

France's Maurice Couve de Murville thought the allies would be chasing a rainbow if they believed they could influence developments inside the Soviet Union.

Gerhard Schroeder of East Germany warned against overestimating the importance of the Peking-Moscow dispute. What counts, he said, is that the Soviet military potential has increased considerably and the Kremlin has not abandoned its aims in Western Europe.

What to do with tousled hair after a busy day outdoors. (Inches long) and wearing it as a topknot. To add height and these models solve this old problem with a wiglet. After smoothing her hair to the back (left), the model (right) uses a wiglet. She combs and pins her hair in model pins it in place and creates a new hairstyle by braiding place and arranges the wiglet with elaborate curls at the her switch of human hair (switches usually are 18 to 22 inches long). A wiglet also helps in creating formal hairstyles.

Summer handbags in corn husk and straw combine country pertness with city chic. A sensational suburban to city traveler, sturdy corn husk bag (left) has harnessed leather fold-over lid and strap and comes in a wide variety of colors. Mexican straw handbag (right) has leather trim and roomy zippered inside compartment. Both are Park Lane designs.

Experience Versus Innocence
By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I am haunted by the young man who was worried by the absence of pre-marital experimentation. He knew a couple who were disappointed in marriage because of inexperience. How many more are disappointed because petting has created an illicit aura to so-called love.

To treat this unique relationship like new suit or car to be tried out is to relegate its value to that of a commodity. Actually there is no similarity. This complex relationship between man and woman requires years for the beauty of full development.

We moderns are in such a worried hurry about everything! A man who is physically normal, interested enough in his prospective mate's happiness to read recommended books and positive of a deep mutual love, respect and admiration, need have no qualms.

I knew a girl who, after marriage, did not experience the thrill that petting had previously afforded. The temporary excitement of the forbidden cheated her of the real thrill of years of exploration; of developing a one-to-one relationship which can retain romance indefinitely—as it has for me—after a Victorian upbringing and complete inexperience.

Perhaps the young man who wrote you will have forced the solution the quick way; I hope not. I hope the deep joy of slow-developing discovery will be theirs. —Would-Be-Helper.

Dear Would-Be: I know many people who regard sex and love as two distinctly separate forces. They indulge in premarital experiences with no thought of loving in their hearts. Eventually they marry, have children and lead what they consider successful lives. But to me they are not successful, for they have never experienced love in the real sense of the word. The Puritanical would call such an experience before marriage, however sincere, a sin. The only sin to me is insincerity.

Dear Helen: If you think "Someone Who Knows" had an easy way to a successful marriage, you missed the point. Desperate poverty, second-hand clothes, strict discipline, a meagre social life and having to work at 16 to help support her family, could hardly be called an easy formula for a happy marriage.

We would not wish such rigid rearing for children even though it taught the poor girl the vital lesson of self-discipline and service. Without these qualities any marriage has two strikes against it. —Elam B. Longenecker, Mannheim, Pa.

Dear Mr. Longenecker: I certainly don't think that "Someone Who Knows" evolved an easy formula for a happy marriage. She learned her lesson the hard way, but the more I see of growing children, the more I believe the hard way is the right way for them, if every they are to amount to anything. Indulgent parents, far from being kind, are only sowing seeds of trouble when they pamper their children. We've seen this happen in our own family and among our friends. The results can be tragic.

Confidential to H.D.R.: Tell your mother that graduation is the one time for a young girl to look her prettiest. Your family doctor could be a help. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "How to Get Along with an Adolescent." Ask your mother to read it.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bullets Fall Students
BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Police bullets felled 20 of 400 high schools students who went on a wild rampage through a cattle town Thursday after failing to get two teachers of their choice.

In another riot at an oil refining center, a boy was killed and 13 soldiers were injured in a clash stemming from a strike by civic organizations protesting electric and water shortages.

Signs Confusing
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Ray S. Manor of Little Rock, executive secretary of the Arkansas Motor Hotel Association, says the signs on Interstate Route 30 approaching Little Rock confuse motorists. Manor told the state Highway Department Wednesday the confusion hurt the tourist business of motels near the built-up city area.

Visit Makes Cuba a Full Red Satellite

An AP News Analysis
By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Through his richly ballyhooed visit to the Soviet Union, Fidel Castro has apparently converted Cuba into a full-fledged Soviet satellite.

If this means he is now going home to Havana, loaded with Soviet medals, to launch aggressive Communist operations against other Latin-American countries, the world may well face another and far graver military crisis than that of last fall in the Caribbean.

For President Kennedy has made clear to the Communist leadership that peace in the Caribbean can be preserved only under two conditions. One is that Premier Khrushchev must not ship nuclear rockets to Cuba again. The other is that Castro must avoid hostile actions against neighboring countries.

The assumption in high Washington quarters is that Khrushchev wants to preserve Castro's Cuba as a showcase of Communist conquest far from the shores of the Soviet Union. If this proves to be correct, it is expected that Khrushchev will keep the impulse and erratic Cuban prime minister under a tight leash indefinitely.

In the course of farewell ceremonies for Castro in Moscow Thursday, Khrushchev renewed his previous pledges to come to Cuba's aid if it is attacked. He said that any future crisis over Cuba would be harder to solve than that of last October, when, under direct U.S. challenge, he agreed to remove his nuclear missiles and nuclear-capable bombers from the Caribbean island.

Cash Tribute to Kennedy by Bigwigs

By FRANK CORMIER

NEW YORK (AP)—A birthday salute wafted kind words and soft music in President Kennedy direction—and cold cash into Democratic coffers Thursday night.

More than 600 New Yorkers marked Kennedy's 46th birthday, which comes next Wednesday, at a star-studded dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Each of the diners had contributed at least $1,000 to the Democratic party this year — yet the White House insisted it was a bipartisan gathering. This little joke seemed to be part of the birthday fun.

After the dinner and a rousing entertainment, Kennedy drove to the uptown apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. T. Smith, old friends who entertained him until nearly 2 a.m.

Then Kennedy returned to his own quarters at the Carlyle Hotel to rest before flying back to Washington.

Rubies and sapphires are crystalline varieties of aluminum oxide, the colors being the result of small amounts of impurities. Synthetic rubies and sapphires are made by fusing a mixture of aluminum oxide with traces of the necessary coloring agent. Most of the material thus produced is cut up into jewels for watches and other precision instruments.

think so. "I am sure there'll continue to be disputes," he says.

The people in the Pentagon are "strong-minded men," says Kennedy, but completely loyal to their country. He says, too, that "we have to have a secretary to make the final judgment."

Some officers worry that the thrust of McNamara's reorganization is toward eventual merger of the services into one single unit.

No, says McNamara's aides, "We aren't unifying the services, we are unifying the effort."

They mention his "package" program under which each service with a similar function has been brought under central, coordinated direction. Examples are the strategic roles of the Air Force and Navy and the tactical roles of the Army and Air Force, now in a combined "Strike Command."

As a former automobile executive McNamara is a product of the industrial world. To him, the reorganization spells "cost effectiveness"—getting back the worth of investment in dollars and manpower for national defense.

In the uniformed military families, the objections are not to more effectiveness, but to McNamara's techniques.

There is a feeling in the Pentagon that the military man, including those on the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is being downgraded and, by passed, that strategy is being devised by civilians and orders issued directly by civilians to field commands.

The Doctor's Strange Secret By Elizabeth Seifert

THE STORY: Dr. Howdershell, following the shooting of a man at the hospital, tells Jannie that he has been blackmailed for a long time.

XII
I went out through the front door, cutting across the lawn—I had to wait on still another car to make a turn at the end of our street—and then I crossed over. I put my hand on the mail box as I passed it, remembering the way I had helped Smokey paint his name on it.

I started up the drive, and stopped short. Sitting under the holly bush was that big ape, Benny Bell. He wore a loose, bulky sweater, and he had a little porkie hat tilted back on his head, and he grinned up at me through his eyelashes. He held something in his hand—it looked like a sample tube of toothpaste, and he was smelling it, making a snuffling sound as he did this.

"What are you doing?" I cried, my tone sharper than I had meant it to be.

He held the tube between his thumb and forefinger. "Cement," he said, "Cook, you know. Model airplanes?"

"And you smell it?" If I'd had the time to think, I am sure I would have decided that the whole world had gone crazy that morning.

"Sure. It sends a guy. Like whizz-o. Here, try it!"

I shook my head. "You go whizz-o," I suggested. "What are you doing sitting here under the hedge, Benny?"

"Oh—like you said—just sitting."

Benny was looking at the car which had come down the street; I turned to look at it, too. The people in it were staring curiously at the Howdershell home; they drove backed, by, turned, and drove by again, still looking—staring.

I shuddered, and ran up the drive to the front porch. I put my finger on the bell.

Clara didn't answer my ring very soon. Then I saw the cur-

I was relieved to recognize Dr. Bruno's car as it came around the house and into the shelter.

I went to the back door, and let him in, taking comfort in his clean, blond strength, and his quiet manner.

He came on into the house, shook hands with Keyes, and put his arm around Lovey.

She sobbed. "I feel like there'd been a death in the family!" she blurted, her voice rising.

Dr. Bruno nodded, and looked at me. "Maybe a sedative would help," he suggested.

It might, I said he could leave something. "I'm going to stay with Keyes and Lovey as long as they want me," I told the doctor.

"That's good," he sat down at the table, looking unhappy.

Clara brought in a tray of glasses of milk and some cookies on it. At first Keyes wouldn't touch a thing, but when Dr. Bruno began to tell what he knew, the boy became so absorbed that, automatically, he reached for his glass, and then slowly ate a cookie. Lovey had pulled her chair very close to mine, and she obediently drank the milk which I put into her hand.

Almost to his car, Dr. Bruno turned back to tell me, "I did Howdershell's two scheduled T and A's. Three deep wrinkles etched themselves between his light eyebrows. "They weren't real, either."

From that minute, I have liked Dr. Bruno.

In Memoriam

They have not died in vain...those who paid with their lives the last full measure. Today, Memorial Day, is the day to remember Lexington, Gettysburg, Santiago Bay, Chateau Thierry, Coral Sea, Okinawa, Palermo, Normandy and Korea. We need only to look at the cemeteries of the world to realize the supreme sacrifice that was called for, that we might be secure. It called for the giving of life itself for many a man; for untold sorrow and heartache for friends and loved ones. As they bravely died, so we must bravely live. God has a destiny for us, for America, and only eyes of faith can read that destiny. Each drop of blood spilled from Bunker Hill to Iwo Jima, is a deposit in the bank of our country. One hundred sixty-five million Americans can do no less than dedicate ourselves anew. With our Alabaster Ointment of thankfulness, let us nobly remember those who laid themselves between our country and her foes. This is Memorial Day.

THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with blessings that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are leading religious character. Statesman today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. There are our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" for a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.
